OUR OFFER:

Join RIMOWA for this unique opportunity as a Project Buyer and be part of our transformation and product range expansion. The role will cover a large spectrum of responsibilities, an international work environment and will require passion, out of the box thinking and a strategic mindset to ensure our products meet and exceed our client's expectations. In this role, you will also have the chance to enhance the sourcing strategy for textile product categories as they are a key element of our projects.

YOUR TASKS:

- Liaise with the Product Development team to understand the project scope and the company's overall product marketing strategy
- Formalize technical brief and align with stakeholders
- Create a process to identify, map and integrate suppliers in the early design phase
- Prepare planning and action plan to secure smooth execution of the project from marketing brief to commercial launch
- Identify risks and secure flawless start of production, on time, on cost and at the right quality
- Federate and coordinate internal stakeholders toward the achievements of the goals
- Determine cost efficient solutions from design mock-up to industrialization
- Liaise with Sourcing Buyers to align on sourcing strategies
- Define and track the material delivery plans together with the material planners

- Track the purchasing cost in project and identify saving opportunities before handing over to the sourcing buyers
- Be a key member of the project committee by communicating on progress and actively participating in problem solving
- Be responsible for managing and fostering key relationships from innovation to execution, with both internal partners and external vendors

YOUR PROFILE:

- University degree (Engineering or Purchasing)
- Minimum of 3-5 years relevant work experience in project management, engineering or purchasing in industrial field (retail/fashion/luxury experience would be beneficial)
- Deep understanding of manufacturing processes (textile experience would be beneficial)
- Business-mindset and can-do approach
- Strong project management, including developing action plans, identifying deliverables and presenting results
- Strong communication and presentation skills
- Proven ability to analyze and visualize data as base for decision making
- Business fluent in English and German (French is appreciated)
